DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 13-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Higby et al. (Higby) U.S. Patent 6,264,845.

Higby discloses the claimed method for the removal of arsenic in the form of As (III) ions by electrochemically oxidizing the As(III) ions to As (V) ions, adding Fe (II) ions to the aqueous solution, electrochemically oxidizing the Fe(II) to Fe (III) ions and removing the resulting ferric arsenate from the aqueous solution (see col. 4, lines 41-60). The reference further discloses the use of a electrochemical cell having a ferrous anode (see col. 4, line 42-44). The use of the iron-containing anode would inherently dissolve to form the ferrous ions which would be converted to ferric ions in the area surrounding the anode. The patent further teaches the use of non-ferrous anodes (see claim 21). The reference further discloses the removal of particles by a filter (see col. 5, lines 56-67).

Therefore, since the Higby patent teaches each and every limitation, the claims are anticipated.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-12 and 18-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Higby applied as above.

The Higby patent teaches the use of at least three different metals forming anodes which can be a composite anode, including the aluminum and ferrous material (see claim 10).

The patent does not teach the three electrochemical cell claimed. The patent does disclose the use of three different metals as the anodes (see col. 2, lines 61-64). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the disclosure of the Higby patent with the teachings contained therein to provide a cell having only three anodes, because such modification to the number of cells would have been obvious based upon the material being treated.
